EYESIGHT

It is the most valued of all the senses, the worst abused and the least understood.

No intelligent person denies that it is important to have the teeth examined annually.

Eyes break down as well as teeth—and with far more disastrous results. Most eyes break down because they are not examined every year or two by a competent eye expert.

There is nothing unpleasant or disagreeable about a scientific examination of the eyes. Have your eyes examined today at Sayles' Glasses will not be prescribed unless needed.

PROPRIETOR OF MANHATTAN HOTEL DIES THIS MORNING

Adolph Veckman, proprietor of the Manhattan Hotel on Lake Delavan, died at six o'clock this morning at his home on the lake. He had been ill for several months, and being seventy years of age, his vitality finally gave out and he succumbed after a brave fight. Mr. Veckman had for many years been known not only to the natives of Delavan and the vicinity, but to a large number of people from all over the country who have stopped at his hotel.

POWER OF MONEY IN CHURCH COMPARED TO WEDGE OF GOLD

Pennies As Important As Hundreds of Dollars in Church Finance, Declared Rev. F. H. Brigham.

Comparing the money power of the church to a wedge of gold with which it may be possible to split open the world, the Reverend F. H. Brigham urged a policy of liberal contributions on the part of church members in his sermon Sunday morning at the Methodist church. The address was a sort of preview to the members' canvass which was conducted Sunday afternoon by a committee of some forty or fifty men of the church in the interest of a thoroughly organized church budget.

"The first essential to a successful wedge," said the Rev. Brigham, "is a thin, sharp edge. Unless there is a sharp point the wedge will not be effective. One of the reasons why American people today fail in the matter of domestic and household finance, is because they fail to pay attention to the small end of the wedge. They look after the large expenses of the home, but little things which multiply into large amounts in the course of a month or a year, they fail to take into account. It is merely a matter of taking care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves. Successful business management is a matter of looking after the small end of the wedge, and many fortunes are made just because of that careful scrutiny into the small details of finance."

"In the church we need to pay heed to the pennies, the nickels and the dimes. We hear the excuse made, 'What it can give is so little that it wouldn't amount to much.' But such persons give nothing at all. They are neglecting the small end of the wedge. We can get a lesson from the Roman Catholic church in the matter of finance. They do not pass by the pennies, and as a result, the Catholic church is always supplied with funds. It is able to look ahead twenty, thirty or fifty years and provide for its needs. It can purchase the most beautiful property in the center of a city, if it is found that it needs such property for its purposes."

In further expounding the need for attention to the small end of the gold wedge in the church, Rev. Brigham recalled the blessing which Christ gave the poor widow who gave two mites, the all that she had. He said the spirit of sacrifice and consecration which went with it that counted, he pointed out. A similar instance in a small community in this state was called to mind. A cripple and his wife, dependent upon her for support, contributed a thousand pennies toward the building of a new church edifice. The money had been saved by the use of her needle.

But a wedge in order to prove powerful must have something more than a keen end, the Reverend Brigham said. It must be a wedge of gold which the church needs might be found in the Bible in the law of the tithe. It was the law that every one of ten members might have a minister, who would receive the average salary of the ten. A church with twenty members would have a minister, the minister and as much more left over for other expenses. The effectiveness of a church with 650 members would be plain.

To the objection that a small income is unable to afford a gift of one-tenth to the church, Reverend Brigham answered that such cases must be counterbalanced by persons with large incomes. They must be expected to give liberally. Let the person with a small salary give what he is able to give, and let the wealthy give without stint out of their abundance. He quoted Jan. Naclaren, one of the conservative thinkers of the last century, who said that the time would come when it would be a disgrace to die leaving a large fortune. Such a condition was surely coming to pass. It was proved in the cases of such men as Dr. Pearson and Andrew Carnegie. The tree was full of blossoms as compared to the head of the wedge, upon which the blow was struck. They stand the brunt of the blow. But the wedge of gold was not to fall without the man behind it to drive it home. There must be the element of human personality behind it. Mr. Brigham said. Consequently the heart of the giver must go with the gift. It was necessary to consecrate ourselves to the cause. We must put ourselves into the work in order to have it count.

Chicago Markets. Chicago, Nov. 27.—Saturday's hog market advanced 5¢ to 10¢, but trade finished weak, with packers talking low prices for the coming week. Chicago prices for hogs were relatively lower than most of the outside markets.

Combined receipts of swine at the eleven markets the last week totaled 1,853,000, about two largest weekly weeks on record. Chicago alone received 541,000 of the grand total.

Top lambs advanced to $12.25 last week, with average price at $11.50. The market was strong and steady, with dealers predicting lower prices.

Receipts for today are estimated at 29,000 head, 60,000 hogs and 33,000 sheep, against 25,158 cattle, 48,907 hogs and 19,599 sheep a year ago. Next week's estimated receipts, 65,000 cattle, 230,000 hogs and 85,000 sheep, estimates on next Monday's probable run of hogs ranged from 55,000 to 68,000.

Cattle Average High. Good cattle closed strong, while common to fair kinds closed 20¢ to 50¢ below previous week. Average price of good beef steers last week at $10.30 was within 20¢ of record week last June.

Quotations: Choice to fancy steers $11.10@12.05. Poor to good steers 7.20@11.00. Yearlings, fair to fancy 8.75@12.00. Fat cows and heifers 7.75@10.50. Canning cows and cutters 3.85@6.50. Native bulls and stags 5.00@6.60. Feeding cattle, 600@1.10.

RETAIL PRICES WAY UP. BUTTER 47¢; EGGS 40¢

After a period of two weeks or more during which there was but little advance in retail grocery prices, the householder is again confronted with increases in a large number of the commodities and vegetables. With the advance of the winter season fresh vegetables are becoming scarcer and in many cases higher in price. The summer fruits are all gone, though there are many fine apples shown, selling usually at about fifty cents a peck. Lemons, oranges and grapefruit are of better quality and are becoming more popular. Grapefruit are now selling at seven cents, or four for a quarter, and a larger fruit at ten cents or three for a quarter.

Butter is now up to forty-seven cents, lard to twenty-two, lard compound to twenty, and oleomargarine to twenty-seven cents. Fresh eggs are selling for forty cents. Grocers are showing a fine assortment of fresh nuts at twenty cents a pound.

CITY PAVING PLANS SATISFY CITIZENS

No Protests Come in to Officials—Cost Lower Than People Expected.

A general feeling of satisfaction with the schedule of permanent improvements being made by the commission during 1917 prevails throughout the city, according to reports reaching the city hall, providing they far not a single protest relative to the work has been presented. In fact, officials say, that the plans for streets in Janesville have met with instant approval.

Relative to the paving of South Franklin street, from Pleasant to Galena, and North Bluff street, from owners to the gas house, property owners have given one of four types of offers. First, asphalt, asphaltic concrete or two-course reinforced concrete. Superintendent of Streets Commissioner Peter J. Goodman this morning explained the matter under which the board of public works and the commission has proceeded this year.

After bids on all four types to be laid on the respective streets have been received, the commission will hold a meeting with the taxpayers," said Mr. Goodman. "Property owners, the law says, must be given five days' notice through the official city clerk. At the meeting the taxpayers will determine the type of street they desire. This matter may also be determined by a vote of the commission presented to the commission, the majority of property owners benefited being necessary to decide on the kind of street desired."

"A number of property owners have offered four kinds of material on these streets, taking this number as to permit the property owners to select the kind of highway they are most desirous of having. The city engineer Kerch has estimated the costs of all four types. He has figured a range of prices from $180 to $225. This is approximately for lot front, and the actual cost may be a little less or a little more, the figures, however, being determined to that extent by the actual difference in the figures."

"These figures refute those estimates of from three to five hundred dollars per lot front that were prevalent last year on some of the streets the city proposed to pave. The work will not cost near the amount roughly figured by some taxpayers."

"A number of property owners have come to the city hall to inquire relative to the work and cost, and apparently they have been satisfied with the figures available from the city engineer's office. Some of the property owners that the cost for any type of pavement of the four optional to taxpayers would be enormous, but when they saw the figures, they were near as they could be secured at the present time, and with the understanding that these may be either a trifle lower or a trifle higher, they seem anxious that the work be completed as early as possible."

ALL BOY SCOUTS TO MEET ON WEDNESDAY

Organization Must Raise Funds to Pay Camp Expenses for Both Old and New Scouts.

Officers of the Boy Scouts in Janesville have arranged a meeting for all Scouts and for all those boys who are at present organizing troops or who contemplate so doing. At this meeting, which is to be held at the city hall on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, there will be a mass drill by the four troops already in existence. At this time the members of the Scout Council will make a report on the condition of the organization here, and will ask for suggestions and consideration of plans to raise money during the winter. A good deal of money is needed to pay the expenses of the camp last year, to make a similar camp possible for next summer, and to buy permanent equipment for the camp. The council members hope that the boys will have the ingenuity and energy to evolve plans for raising this money.

This will be the first general meeting of the old troops and the administrative officers meet the two new troops which are at this time being organized. It is expected that it will be one of the big scout events of the year.

HOLD TWO TO TRIAL FOR NIGHT ROBBERY

Palmer and Kelly Will Appear Before Judge Maxfield Week From Today for Robbery.

Otto "Smoky" Palmer and Thomas "Bulldog" Kelly, this morning in the federal court were held to trial on Monday, Dec. 4, on the charge of holding up and taking from Chris Rother, a farmhand, a watch and three dollars in money. George Lemke, attorney for the defense, and the administrative officers meet the two new troops which are at this time being organized. It is expected that it will be one of the big scout events of the year.

Palmer and Kelly, testimony given by witnesses at the examination this morning showed, grabbed Rother as he left the Bismarck saloon on North Franklin street, and pushed him into the alley, where they took his timepiece and money. George Lemke, who was over the saloon, Matthew F. Burns, who was attracted by the scuffling, and Rother were on the stand.

When they told incriminated both men, and upon the testimony the district attorney based his motion. They were remanded to jail under bail of $1,000 each.

MANY BOYS TO GO TO BELOIT CONFERENCE

Annual Conference of Older Boys Will Draw Good Number of Janesville Delegates.

Many Janesville boys are preparing to go to Beloit for the annual conference of the Older Boys of this state, which will meet in that city on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week.

The conference is a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. of Beloit and Janesville, and is under the direction of both the state Y. M. C. A. organization and the Wisconsin Sunday School association, which met here in Janesville a few weeks ago.

The conference is planned for the older boys and has met with phenomenal success in the past; eight years ago, when founded, there were but two boys in attendance. Last year at the annual meeting at La Crosse over seven hundred delegates from seventy-three different cities and towns were present at the sessions. Already officials report that eleven hundred delegates have registered for this year's session. In addition there will be many boys there who are regular members of the Y. M. C. A. and who want to hear the many famous speakers who have been secured for the program.

The people of Beloit have generously volunteered to entertain the visiting boys in their homes, giving them lodging and breakfast. Many dinners and luncheons are being planned for the various sectional and topical conferences that will be had.

Many of Janesville's Sunday schools together with the Y. M. C. A. will send delegations to the conference, and a number of older men interested in the activities of these organizations will take an active part in the conferences.

To Janesville there comes the distinction of having the president of the conference, elected at the meeting last year, Paul Richards, the boys' secretary at the local Y. M. C. A., has held this office and has devoted much time to furthering its various lines of endeavor and to making the coming meeting the greatest in the history of the conference.

JOYRIDERS ABANDON LARGE LIMOUSINE IN EVANSVILLE

Evansville, Nov. 27.—Would be joyriders, and automobile thieves, at that, came to grief here in Evansville early Sunday morning. About 4 a. m. Dr. Smith of this city and the residents in his neighborhood were aroused by continued swearing and shouting on the part of a number of individuals who were gathered about a large limousine which stood in front of the Smith home. An inquiry as to what the trouble might be brought no definite information but shortly after, finding their presence was known, the party slipped away making good their escape from the city on one of the early morning trains. When the abandoned car was examined by daylight it was found to bear the license number "87" of a Madison owner. Its gasoline tank was empty and two of its tires were torn in shreds. The interior of the car looked like the interior of a cheap saloon before the janitor arrived on Sunday morning. The owners in Madison were notified of the presence of their car and came down early Sunday forenoon and took the car back.

HEAR DESCRIPTIONS OF NATIONAL PARKS

Philomathian Club Members Enjoy Discussion of American Beauty Spots.

"Nature's Wonderland, as Shown in Some of the National Parks," was the subject of study taken up by the Philomathian club at the meeting on Saturday afternoon.

The little known park of the Mesa Verde was described by Mrs. F. Koebelin. This is situated in a canon near the town of Montezuma, Colorado. It has the largest and best preserved houses of the cliff dwellers within its borders.

Extensive explorations have been made by the government expeditions of these habitations and there are new discoveries made concerning them all the time. Spruce Tree House and the Sun Palace are the most notable of these known at present.

The Park of Mount Rainier was treated by Mrs. Jenkins, who gave a graphic description of its wonderful scenery. The glaciers were given special attention and the beautiful lakes, rivers and forests were mentioned and commented upon.

The Grand Canon, with a description of a personal visit to its mysterious depths was given by Mrs. Helms. Anecdotes of experiences enlivened the story and photographs of the party added to the realism of the trip.

Many beautiful pictures of the scenic wonders of these parks were shown and the afternoon closed with delicious refreshments, served by the hostess, Mrs. Gibbons.

COLD WEATHER PREDICTED FOR LAST PART OF WEEK

Region of the Great Lakes: The weather will be overcast during the week with probably general snows on Wednesday and Thursday attending the passage of a disturbance of considerable intensity across the Great Lakes. It will be considerably warmer during the first half of the week, but much colder after Thursday.

Plain States and Upper and Middle Mississippi Valleys: The temperature will rise during the first half of the week, but it will be much colder Wednesday and Thursday and continue cold thereafter until the close of the week. The weather will be unsettled Tuesday and Wednesday with probably rain and snow; on other days it will be generally fair.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Acting the chaperon to four young girls in a summer camp creates a situation crammed with a romantic possibility. But add to this fact that all four and the chaperon, too, become engaged and there lies a plot for a rapid comedy drama. Such is "The Chaperon," an upcoming feature starring Edna Mayo and Eugene O'Brien. Sydney Ainsworth plays the heavy lead.

The situations in "The Chaperon" are decidedly unconventional, but of a moral quality above criticism. The chaperon herself is in need of a chaperon so often that many amusing scenes result.

Not the least of the exciting moments produced by the fact that the chaperon is a runaway countess. Her first love, a young American, turns up just at the time she least desires him. Then the four young ladies become engaged, the cook, butler and chauffeur resign and, to add further embarrassment the count, her husband, appears.

A BRIGHT YOUNG MAN.

To James W. Adams, a young University of Pennsylvania student, belongs the honor of having the first play he has ever written accepted for that famous screen star, Theda Bara. Mr. Adams is only twenty-three years old. Comparatively few writers have had such good fortune as Mr. Adams in having a first story accepted.

Mr. Adams is a native of Johnstown, Pa., and belongs to one of the leading families of that section. He was educated in the public schools of that city, and afterward attended Beloit College.

After spending three years at Beloit, the young Mr. Adams was sent to the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia. He has now been there three years, and will graduate in 1918.

"WAR BRIDES."

This new movie, about which much has been promised, stars Nazimova. The weak point in any high-grade movie generally is more illuminating than any listing of its good points.

So here is a criticism of one capable reviewer who says that Nazimova seemed to think she would have to act harder to register emotion in her character than she stage and that in this her first movie, she "acts too much."

"THE PRINCESS PAT" ENJOYED BY ALL

Comic Opera by Noted Composer Presented at New Myers Theatre Last Evening to Large Audience.

The combination of Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom as composer and librettist, have been responsible for some notable comic opera successes, and the best of these, "The Princess Pat," was seen at Myers Theatre last evening, coming direct from the Davidson theatre, Milwaukee, after successful engagement of two months at the Garrick theatre, Chicago. Miss Blanche Duffield, who heads the cast, brings to her role a surprisingly good voice and an irresistibly engaging personality. The melody is graceful and the story intensely interesting with comedy which made it most acceptable to the fun-loving playgoers.

The plot in brief deals with the effort of a young girl to save her uncle's financial standing by marrying a rich old widower. The widower, however, has a son, a student at Yale, who is in love with the girl. Then comes "Princess Pat," an Irish girl who married an Italian nobleman. He has been neglecting the Princess and she flirts with old Schmeck whom Grace is to marry, in order to arouse the prince's jealousy, and at the same time aid her friends in eloping with the son. The mutual friend who "fixes" everything is aided and abetted by "St. Peter," the town constable, and the novel complications that ensue place "Princess Pat" on the highest plane from a comedy standpoint of view.

The music is enough to quote the efficient critic, Ashton Stevens in the Chicago Examiner: "Victor Herbert at his best. It was new and done with consummate grace and elegance. A special augmented orchestra aided in the wonderful success of the score. Whether making her entrance in up-to-date riding togs on the back of a sleek horse, or in the modern gown of the ball-room, Miss Duffield is charming, and was ably assisted by such well known artists as Al Shean, Oscar Figini, Olga Kargau, David Quikaco, Louis Cassavant, Martin Haydon, Ralph Riggs and Katherine Witche. The dancing of Riggs and Witche was the very best ever seen in Janesville.

The chorus was an exceptional one, which sang and danced in a most delightful manner. The scenery, costumes and electrical effects were up to the Cort standard which means the last word in equipment for high-class offerings.

TALENT DISPLAYED AT SACRED CONCERT

Congregational Church Choir Presents Program of Rare Merit on Sunday Evening.

That the general public appreciate music of the better class was shown by the large attendance at the sacred concert given at the Congregational church last evening.

Miss Grace Murphy presided at the organ with the grace and ease of a veteran and the choir of eighteen voices in their surprise gowns presented a very effective appearance.

All the selections were of a very high class of music and presented under the direction of Professor J. S. Taylor were given with great precision and effect. The chorus numbers showed harmonious work and the solo parts were well taken. The thrilling voice of Miss Manila Powers showed to advantage in the hymn "The Church's Lullaby" and in "The Song of the Lark."

The duet by Mr. Schoof and Miss Margaret McCulloch was beautifully rendered, the voices blending perfectly. The solo, "Bow Down Thine Ear," given by Miss Lewis was an effective bit of work. The excerpts from the grand old score of the creation were thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience, the soloists taken by Mrs. J. S. Taylor and Miss Laine. Severhill were sung most beautifully and with reverent appreciation of the spirit and theme of the subject.

The instrumental music was simple and appropriate to the occasion. The violin solo, "Holy City," given by request by Mr. Rollo Dobson, was executed with a happy and winning effect. The quartet rendered a plaintive lulling melody, that was delightfully given. Those playing in the quartet were Miss Ada Lewis, Miss McManus, violin, Mr. Dobson, and cello, Mr. Lewis.

The whole entertainment in its finish and excellence reflected great credit on the choir and on its director, Professor Taylor.

Eugene O'Brien and Edna Mayo in "The Chaperone."

CONTROL.

William Farnum relates an incident of a half-portion earthquake in San Francisco.

A theater audience was startled, and the manager stepped to the footlights.

"There's no danger," he assured the audience. "We've got it under control."

June Caprice was born in Arlington, Mass., a few yards from the road over which Mr. Revue galloped on his famous ride in 1775.

Henry King, old fashioned in his tastes, is said to dine at home almost every evening with his wife, Gypsy Abbott.

MANY PERSONS ENJOY ART LEAGUE EXHIBIT

Large Number of Visitors See Pictures at Library Hall on Sunday Afternoon.

There was a very large attendance at the exhibition of the Art League Sunday afternoon at the Library building. It has been somewhat of an experiment with the league as to whether the public would care for an exhibition on Sunday afternoon. But that they appreciate the opportunity and the chance of seeing the pictures was shown by the large numbers of people coming and going all the afternoon. The ladies were greatly gratified by the many gentlemen who came in to enjoy the pictures and discuss their merits, and also by the groups of young people and children who appeared.

At the special meeting of the league on Saturday afternoon it was voted to buy one of the pictures, "Into the Mist." This is a Venetian scene of unusual treatment, a haunting and mysterious creation, with tender, beautiful colorings, which has been much admired. An almost equal favorite was "Quiet Waters," which was a close second in the vote.

The desert scenes and the dunes of the Pacific coast were much admired, and the club only regretted

THE UNBORN

The Apollo has secured this Chicago sensation for two days, Wednesday and Thursday. It will not be brought here because of this theatre's desire to force "problem" plays upon patrons or please the morbidly curious. Such pictures have been presented before but this is pronounced the final word in birth control pictures.

"The Unborn" has stirred Chicago for six solid weeks and today is turning away crowds at every performance. It is said to be the most startling, most amazing and most sensational production ever passed by the board of censors.

The theme of the story is "Shall women alone pay the penalty?" It will make a deep impression on you, that is certain. If you will be offended, please do not come, as offense is farthest from the policy of this theatre. But if you would see a real birth control play and learn once and for all the powerful sermon it teaches. If you would have the bare facts laid bare as no other picture of this sort has done, then see "The Unborn," and, it is advisable to come early as no seats will be reserved.

The first matinee will be open to women only. Bear this in mind. The two evening performances on Wednesday and the matinee and two evening performances of Thursday will be open to all over twenty years of age. As was stated before, come early for the crowds will be tremendous, this being one of the first cities outside of Chicago to show this picture.

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married six years and have no children. Ever since our marriage my husband has worked night shifts. This makes it quite impossible for us to attend any evening affairs together. A man who is an old friend of our family drops in often to spend the evening with me, knowing how lonely I am. Lately we have realized that we love one another. He begs me to leave my husband and marry him. I am not willing to do this, yet I hate to give up the companionship of this man. What can I do?

The companionship of a man who urges you to leave your husband is so dangerous that you should not hesitate to give up. This man has taken advantage of your loneliness to the extent that he has made you forget your responsibilities and obligations to your husband. Have nothing more to do with him. That you are deprived of the society in the evening is unfortunate indeed, but no more so for you than for him. Plan your social affairs for the afternoon.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I went with a young man all summer and last three or four weeks before he left town he stopped calling on me. I don't know why he stopped calling, unless it was because I acted cool and independent the last few times when he called.

I met him on the street several times before he left, and I spoke to him and he always smiled and spoke to me.

About two weeks after he left town he wrote me asking how I was, etc. He asked me why I acted so cool the last few times he called. He wants me to write to him. I do not care anything about this young man. I liked him just as a friend, so I do not know whether I should answer him or not. If I answer, what shall I say? I am so friendly to him whenever we meet on the street after we "quit," so I should think he would know I am not angry at him. Should I write him or not? DOUBTFUL.

Perhaps it would be well to write the young man a little letter. Tell him a few things about mutual friends and what you are doing. Ask no questions so that your letter will not call for a reply. If he answers it you will not need to write again. A response to the first letter will make the boy feel better and will be more friendly on your part to ignore him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a high school girl of sixteen. I have short and stubby eyelashes. What can I do to make them grow long?

(2) What should a girl do when a boy writes her?

(3) Which one should speak first when meeting the boy or the girl?

(4) I am asked nearly every day by some boy to go to the show, but I go myself and they want to go every night. What should I say when they ask me and I don't want to go?

(5) I am going away Christmas. Would it be all right to write to a boy if he asks to write to me that?

SWEET SIXTEEN.

(1) Make five grams of red vaseline and ten centigrams of boric acid into a smooth paste, and rub lightly over the lashes at the roots at night. If you put much of the tonic on your eyes will look heavy with grease all the time.

(2) The girl should pay no attention to the wink.

(3) Tell them that you can't be because you are too young. I know that it is hard for girls to know what to say when boys ask them to go places and they want to go. It would be all right to merely say that you can't go and not mention the reason.

(5) Yes.

"Mo-momentum," and after that you are all right. The difference between the person who does things and the person who doesn't is simply the question of extra power at the start. Success is primarily the result of the ability to start something. Of course you have to keep at whatever you start, but there are mighty few things that you can't bowl along on "on high" after you once get started.

GOOD DISHES MADE FROM WISCONSIN APPLES.

Prepared for The Gazette by Nellie Maxwell of the Department of Farmers' Institutes of the University of Wisconsin.

Apples are such a common, necessary food, and are so universally grown in Wisconsin that one often wonders why every new householder does not at once set out a few trees for summer, fall and winter bearing fruit. An apple a day keeps the doctor away is an old rhyme which will profit us if we heed it. Each family usually has its own favorite apple dishes, but new ways are always welcome.

A baked apple with sugar and cream is an ideal dish for any meal and is especially good for the little people. Cored and filled with raisins, nuts, etc., they make a most attractive and tasty dish. If it is necessary to peel the fruit, wash and core it first. Into each cavity put a tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of chopped nuts and a bit of candied orange or lemon peel. Sprinkle lightly with nutmeg or cinnamon and pour a half cupful of water for each apple into the pan. Bake slowly and tenderly.

Apples cored and filled with small sausages and then placed around the pork roast is another use of the fruit well worth remembering.

Cored apples filled with marshmallows, jelly, marmalade, raisins, nuts, bits of sausage or other meats and bread crumbs are all unusual and good.

Cored apples filled with marshmallows, topped with tender butter, decorated with quarters of blanched almonds and browned in the oven, look like small porcupines and taste very good. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Apples cored and filled with a little fat, sprinkled with a bit of sugar, and placed around a platter of pork sausages, makes a good dish. Serve a slice with each sausage.

Apple Ice Cream—Bake ten tart apples and put them through a sieve, add a pint of rich milk, and sugar to taste, a drop each of lemon extract and vanilla. Sprinkle with nuts. This is also a delicious ice to serve with roast goose or pork.

Apple Filling for Cake—Grate a good flavored apple and mix with a good quality of sugar and the white of an egg. The advantage of this filling is its flavor, and the moisture keeps the cake from drying.

Apple Pie—This is so well known, yet so good, that we must not slight its mention. Put layers of chopped apples in a baking dish, follow with layers of buttered apples and mix with a little sugar and cinnamon or nutmeg. If liked, and a very little water; bake slowly and serve with its own sauce.

Apple Dumplings—No one who has ever had them did not like them? Make a rich biscuit dough, roll out and cut in squares, on each square place a cored peeled apple, place and dumplings in a deep dish, add brown sugar, boiling water and a little butter; bake at least an hour. If cavities may be filled with raisins, and the result is a glorified dish of apple dumplings.

Stuff the Christmas goose with good flavored apples chopped with half as many raisins or prunes. If prunes are used they should be soaked and the pits removed.

Apple pie is most delicious served with whipped cream covered with starchy graded cheese. Apple pie is a mode is not to be forgotten on extra occasions, as ice cream is easily made. Place a small spoonful on top of each. Place a small spoonful on top of each. Place a small spoonful on top of each.

Stewed apples will not be recognized as the same dish if they are cut in quarters, put into the oven in a covered stone dish and baked at least half a day. They will be rich in color and delicious in taste.

Apple Custard Pie—Take a cupful of fresh air discourses and add a cupful of cream and two beaten eggs; add a half cup of sugar and flavor with nutmeg. Bake in one crust and cover with a meringue and cover with any other fruit. Apples are used most happily. Two parts of apple, one of celery, a few nuts and a good salad dressing and you have a most tasty salad.

Apple cups may hold salads of various kinds, or even favors or presents at parties or at holiday time. A low apple alternating with a red one around the table gives a festive air. The apple ice cream might be served in these cups. Wouldn't the children delight in such a dish?

An apple placed in the box with your fruit cakes will keep them moist and all a slight flavor to them. Look for the last of the Wisconsin products series tomorrow. Different ways of serving Wisconsin Food Lamb.

FACTS ABOUT THE CAPTAIN

Pneumonia is called Captain of the Men of Death. Tuberculosis must be Major, for it ranks pneumonia in the mortality statistics. But pneumonia destroys more lives than any other disease, so we do not question its captaincy.

Pneumonia is sometimes called the friend of the aged, because it takes them off with a short, not very painful illness, sparing them the cold gradations of decay. We hope we shall never live to see the day when pneumonia will be our friend. We want to go with our boots and harness on, not tucked in bed, dozing gently away between two days.

In the aged pneumonia often develops insidiously. No chill, no noticeable cough, no complaint of pain, just a desire to go to bed, or an increasing prostration. Often no fever, and in a few hours or a day or two comes the silent end. Many a death certificate is signed "heart failure" when in truth pneumonia is the final illness.

People most shut indoors in nice warm places where there are no drafts are most susceptible to pneumonia and all other respiratory ailments. Crowding is a strong predisposing cause, as Dr. Gorge demonstrated when he investigated and stopped epidemics of pneumonia among Panama canal laborers and later among laborers on the Rand in South Africa.

Pneumonia, like all catarrhal infections, is a warm air disease—artificially warmed air. The warmer you keep your cave, your enclosure, your house, office, shop, car, theater or what not—the better the soil and the larger your chance of picking up a virulent colony of pneumonia cocci. South Africa discourages the migration of the "cold" germs. Warm air favors it.

A chill or chilliness commonly announces the onset of pneumonia or any other respiratory infection, even a coryza. But don't be fooled by the chill. Don't be a fishwife. Use your brain. The chill is a symptom, and a favorable one, at that, not a cause of the illness. By the time you begin to chatter you have got it or it has got you, and it is too late to prevent.

ILLINOIS MAY LIMIT WORK FOR CHILDREN

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 27.—When the legislature of Illinois convenes next January an amendment will be offered to the child-labor law to prohibit the employment of children under 16 years except during vacation season, recommended by Oscar F. Nelson, of Chicago chief state factory inspector.

"The conservation of the child is the foundation upon which any kind of preparedness must rest," Nelson said today. He declared that the present condition of highly specialized industry has removed any chance of a child's surviving long term employment without effects.

"The boy bandit problem can be traced to the rebellion of youth against blind alley employment," he said. "The state must meet the situation now and the most practical way to meet it is to prohibit the employment of all children under 16 years except during school vacation."

Between 14 and 16 are allowed to work the year around under certain limitations as to hours of labor. They must have a certificate to show that conditions have been complied with.

IVORY SOAP rinses easily. It does not stick to the skin because it does not contain unsaponified oil.

The rinse water, whether cold or warm, removes every particle of soap instantly. The pores are left clean in every sense—clean of dirt, clean of soap.

There is no smarting or burning. The skin dries soft and smooth without a suggestion of soapy shine.

The skin feels comfortable and looks its best after an Ivory Soap bath because it really is clean in the strictest sense.

Household Hints

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES.

Cough Syrup—Five cents' worth of senna leaves, one quart water; boil and strain; add five cents' worth of licorice root, five cents' worth of gum arabic, one pound rock candy. Boil to a syrup. Get ingredients at drug store.

For Chills—Take rabbit fat and rub it on good several times. Sure relief. It will cure frozen chickens' combs by rubbing on a few times—takes the frost right out and you'd never know it was frozen. Save all rabbit fat.

PEPPER RELISH.

Take twelve sweet green peppers, twelve sweet red peppers, fifteen large onions, two stalks celery, one quart vinegar, three tablespoons salt, five cents' worth of mustard seed, one and one-half pounds sugar.

Wash peppers and remove all seeds. Put through food chopper, add chopped onions. Boil water over all for ten minutes and drain. Add chopped celery.

Pour cold water over all and let come to a boil. Drain again. Take one cup sugar, salt, sugar and mustard seed; let boil. Pour over vegetables, let boil again and seal.

THE TABLE.

Fluffy Fried Eggs—Have the fat hot. Break in eggs one at a time, as fast as possible; sprinkle with salt and pepper, then add a dash of boiling water. Cover with tight lid and let fry a few seconds. In this way eggs are free from grease or fat when served, and the whites are not leathery. This method of cooking will require a little time to be well mastered, as one must move rather fast.

Bran Bread, such as is bought in the stores, makes an excellent toast, which is much appreciated by persons who are dieting. Its delicious crispness and nutty flavor appeal to most palates. If toasted very slowly it is an excellent food for invalids and dyspeptics, and toasted quickly and well buttered it is heartily relished by well folks.

Pineapple Salad—One can pineapple, one-half dozen oranges, one-half dozen bananas, all cut in small pieces; sprinkle with one cup sugar, let stand four hours. Just before serving pour all the juice off. Then add two cups of marshmallows cut fine. Serve on lettuce leaf. Nuts can be used also. Serves about a dozen people.

Mocha Ice-cream—Cream together one cup confectioner's sugar, two tablespoons cocoa, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons boiling coffee and one teaspoon vanilla. When smooth spread on top of cake.

Good inexpensive Cookies—Recipes like this one are especially welcome, with butter and eggs so high. One cup sour cream, one cup sugar, one egg, one teaspoon soda, four enough to roll. One teaspoon soda dissolved in molasses, one pound raisins, five cups flour, one tablespoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg, one-half tablespoon molasses. Bake slowly. This makes a small milk pan cake and will keep two months or longer.

The Highflyers

Apparently Tom Has Completely Recovered From His Economy Fit.

"I say, isn't this great to have an evening alone together after all that has happened in the last two weeks?" Tom beamed his pleasure as he sat with elevated feet, his cigar between his fingers. Marjory, curled up in the big leather chair, smiled her satisfaction.

"That nurse was the woodenest thing I ever saw," he continued. "She seemed to think I was bent on destroying you and that nothing short of a lynx-eyed watchfulness on her part would preserve you to your friends. Marjory laughed.

"She took elegant care of me, so you must not berate her too hard," she objected. "Say, Tom, why did you let her take the money to pay her? I began to worry, you seemed to be so annoyingly poor all of a sudden. You do get economical spells once in a while. I begin to think all men suffer from this affliction." Tom chuckled noticeably.

"If you knew what a close call I had you would think you had reason to worry. Mother pulled me from the clench this time. She's the stuff I wrote a tatty letter and she sent me an even hundred." Marjory's eyes glowed. "With that I paid the wooden image and drove the wolf a few yards from the door."

"So that is what made you so good natured all of a sudden?" she murmured. Tom brought his feet down to the floor and leaned forward, looking at his wife.

"Was it as bad as all that?" he asked. "I assure you a funeral pall would have been a cheerful object beside me. That is why I did not get the new kimono."

"That it would be too loud in such a funeral atmosphere?" Tom was puffing away vigorously at his cigar. "Really, I am represented you as utterly submerged."

"It was a shame for me to drag her in as a pleader, but I could not get near you. That nurse had you surrounded with a barbed wire fence. I was deuced wretched of her to do it." Tom spread out his newspaper and lazily skimmed the day's news.

"Tom are you glad I did not buy the kimono?" Marjory pulled up her chair and looked over Tom's shoulder.

"It was mighty decent of you. I appreciate it, I assure you." Tom reached back and patted the pale cheek.

"I don't want to make it hard for you. Really, Tom, I am not so heartless as that," purred the girl. Tom dropped the paper and wheeled his chair around and drew Marjory onto his knee.

"I have been thinking you ought to have your share of this windfall—I mean this loan. Of course I mean to pay it back when I can, but I had half of it now. Paying the nurse took something to get the taste out of my mouth. It had had two weeks of enforced society," broke in Tom. "so I have been thinking we might give a little party here even before you are able to go out."

"Oh, have a caterer come, and take charge of everything so you would not be taxed at all," Tom patted the little hand that lay in his.

"That would cost more than a new kimono," she smiled archly. "I know, but I want to give you a good time. You have been so sick." "You dear!" she whispered. (To be continued.)

"MO-MENTUM."

One of my little nieces is not quite four yet, but she has a busy mind which is forever seeking information. This she ponders over, sometimes commenting on it in a way that makes grownups gasp.

The other day she was watching her father start his automobile. "It don't make so much noise after it gets going," she observed, and promptly asked the inevitable question.

"Because it's always harder to start anything," explained her father. "After it's going it gathers momentum, and that makes it easier, and the engine doesn't have to work so hard."

"That point," said her father, "is saying to her father: 'Alfred, how do you expect the child to understand that?'"

Like Getting Up In The Morning. Before her father could answer, the little niece piped up: "I do, too. It's when Katie tells me to get up in the morning. At first it's hard to get out of bed, but when I get momentum it's easy."

We all laughed outright. But since we've wondered if my small niece, tending to grasp the mechanical principle, didn't enunciate a great human one.

GINGLES' JINGLES

WORK AND THRIVE.

Do not tell me that you're skidding, that you're wagon's on the Fritz, that your bean is on the hummer, and you can't make any hits, that you've always been a loser, be the game what e'er it may, that you've never been the lucky guy to shake down the fancy pay. There's a reason why your wagon has a wobble and is weak, there's a reason why your hinges will not bend without a squeak, there's a whyness that your dreamy knob is twirly and at sea, why you haven't got the zippy stuff in your dull thinkers. And the reason is you do not care, you do not give a rap, at the time you should be stepping some, you pull a needless nap. You are moping on the highway, lost within a cloud of dust—while the others hit 'er up a few, you set the brake and rust. There's not a really reason, there is not a decent why for your present circumstances, for your pessimistic cry, all the wide world is before you, coaxing you to make a drive. Asking but an honest effort—asking you to work and thrive.

Brought Big Money.
Corn raised from seed found among Aztec ruins in New Mexico sold at the rate of $1,250,000 a carload in Kansas. However, only 100 grains were sold, but at the rate paid—two cents a grain—a carload would cost a million and one-quarter dollars. The corn is not unlike the "calico" corn grown in many parts of the country.

MRS. MELTON'S LETTER
To Tired Worn-out Mothers.

Jackson, Miss.—I shall feel repaid for writing this letter if I can help any tired, worn-out mother or housekeeper to find health and strength as I have.
I have a family of five, sew, cook and do my housework and I became very much run-down in health. A friend asked me to try Vinol. I did so and now I am well and strong and my old iron energy has been restored. Vinol has no superior as a tonic for worn-out, run-down, tired mothers or housekeepers.—Mrs. J. N. Melton, Jackson, Miss.
Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis. Vinol is sold in Broadway by W. J. Smith. Also at the leading drug stores in all Wisconsin towns.

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS
Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite lacking you have a bad taste in your mouth—a face, no longer feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for cod liver oil—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.
To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no wrinkles, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like cod liver oil—yet have no dangerous after effects.
They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. Take one or two tablets and note the pleasing results.

What to Do for Itching Skins

There is usually immediate relief for skins itching, burning and disfigured by eczema, ringworm, or similar tormenting skin trouble, in a warm bath with Resinol soap and a simple application of Resinol ointment. The soothing, healing Resinol medication stops itching at once, and soon clears away all trace of eruption, even in severe and stubborn cases, unless the trouble is due to some serious internal disorder.
You need never hesitate to use Resinol. It is a doctor's prescription that has been used by other physicians for twenty years in the treatment of skin affections. It contains absolutely nothing that could injure the tenderest skin. Every druggist sells Resinol ointment and Resinol soap. Resinol Soap soothes tender skins and helps to make poor complexions clear, fresh and velvety, because it contains this Resinol prescription.

GRANDMOTHER KNEW
There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. You can now get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.
Mustardless is a clean, white, cream-colored, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.
Just massage Mustardless in with the finger tips gently. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.
Use Mustardless for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

IF YOU ARE GOING TO TAKE A SEA TRIP MAKE UP YOUR MIND TO RAISE A BEARD.

The QUARTERBREED

By ROBERT AMES BENNET

"You will do as well for that, Jake," interposed Vandervyn. "Besides, I believe the commissionmen will wish to put off the powwowing until tomorrow. It's a tiresome trip across from the railroad. No doubt they will glance through the agency papers, and then go over to your house to plan the opening of the mineral lands."

The big, blue-eyed man who had ridden in the front seat of the car, nodded and replied in an oily tone: "If you assure us the accounts are correct, Mr. Vandervyn, I think it is needless trouble at this time to make further investigation."

"Still, oughtn't we to—" One of the commissionmen began a querulous objection. But his fellows were rising to leave the office, and he bent to the will of the majority.

Hardy bowed them out with punctilious courtesy. He was still working when Marie's Indian boy brought word that she wished him to come to dinner without fail. He hesitated, but at last sent back the reply that he would be present.

Having in mind the cold and almost insulting manner of the visitors, he cut his arrival as close as possible. This proved to be a tactful move. Though the newcomers were all mellow with whisky, a chilling silence followed the entrance of the acting agent. Even Dupont turned his thick shoulder and poured himself another drink without a word of greeting.

Only Vandervyn raised his empty glass to the last guest, and called frostily: "Just in time, captain. Here's to your quick progress along the course of your career."

Hardy did not reply. He was bowing to Marie, who had that moment appeared in the dining room doorway. "Dinner is served, gentlemen," she said, and she bowed in her most graceful manner. "Captain Hardy, you may take me in."

Vandervyn sprang up, angry-eyed. Marie did not seem to perceive him. She stepped in beside Hardy, and waited with perfect composure while the other guests passed out after her father. Vandervyn's face was far from pleasant as he followed the others. The girl did not look at him. Hardy escorted her to the head of the table, and she gave him the seat of honor. The chairman of the commission was graciously assigned to the seat on her left.

Hardy was deeply gratified, but he failed to realize the full meaning of his preferment as the most distinguished gentleman present. Vandervyn alone was fully aware of the motives that had prompted Marie to honor her rival. He bent over his plate, his lip between his teeth. For a time he could neither eat nor talk. Then he rallied and, for a while, sat staring into the bubbling amber of his champagne, his lips curved in an odd smile. At last a merry quip from Marie stirred him to action. He rose and bowed to her.

"Lady—and gentlemen," he smilingly remarked, "I have two very pleasant little announcements to make. It is my fond expectation that you will relish them quite as much as you have relished this delicious little dinner."

He looked at Marie, smiled, and continued: "My first announcement relates to our martial fellow-guest, the gallant and distinguished Captain Floyd Hardy. The privilege and pleasure are mine to inform the distinguished officer that the war department has been pleased to relieve him of this tiresome detail to grant him permission immediately to join his regiment, which is at Vancouver barracks, Washington, under orders to sail for Alaska."

of the kindness with which you make the announcement," he said, and he turned to smile gravely into Marie's troubled face. "I could have asked for time to carry out our irrigation plans. But, doubtless, the bureau will find some one more competent than myself."

"Will you not remonstrate against this unjust order?" she exclaimed. "You forget that I am a soldier," he replied. "Army life is a life of service. You will now understand why most army women are army girls before they are army wives."

"Ah—but if a woman loves!" murmured Marie, and her gaze sank with the drooping of her slitten lids. "Alaska must be a magnificent land to visit."

Vandervyn was bending to seat himself. He straightened as if struck. The suddenness of the movement drew all eyes back to him. His wine-flushed face had gone white. He met the wondering look of the man opposite, and forced a smile.

"I have still another announcement to make," he said, "one that you will all admit to be still more pleasant than the delightful news of our gallant friend's summons to wider fields of service. Gentlemen—and lady—permit me to remind you that all the world loves a lover. This being true, it follows that all the world must doubly love a pair of lovers. It is my privilege and delight to be able to announce that, as I am not at present free to engage myself, the other member of the pair, our charming hostess, has graciously given her promise to wait for me."

He caught up his champagne glass, which the Indian boy had just refilled. "Gentlemen, here's to the loveliest girl in the world, the lady who has given me her true promise!"

The commissionmen rose—Dupont rose. Hardy sat as if stunned, his eyes fixed upon Marie's face in a strained, half-incredulous stare. She was very pale. She seemed to shrink. Yet she made no attempt to deny Vandervyn's statements. Hardy stood up with the other men and, for the first time that evening, he emptied his champagne glass.

"Youth to youth!" he murmured. Meeting Vandervyn's exultant smile, he drew in a deep breath, and his voice rang clear and steady: "You are to be congratulated, sir. I wish you the great good fortune that you may in all things prove worthy of the lady's trust."

Vandervyn's flushed face crimsoned, but whether with shame or anger could not be told. Marie had risen, and her tactfulness diverted attention from the rivals.

"The coffee and cigars will be served in the parlor," she announced. Vandervyn somewhat hastily led the way to the other room. Hardy, being the farthest away, followed behind the others. When he came to the door he coolly closed and bolted it.

"Captain!" breathlessly exclaimed Marie. "What will they think?" "Most of them are beyond thinking, and they have the whiskey bottle," he replied. He faced about, and came back to her.

She shrank before the look in his eyes. "You—you have no right!" she murmured. "I will go—"

"Not until you have heard me. There may be no other opportunity for me to see you alone before I go away," he said. "I do not wish to reproach you. Yet you must realize that your failure to tell me of your promise to him led me to believe I had a fighting chance."

"You—do not—ask me to explain," she faltered.

"What is there to explain?" he rejoined. "You knew that I trusted your sincerity utterly, and you were willing to amuse yourself with me while he was away."

"I—you have no right," she sought to defend herself. "I never led you to believe—"

Marie threw up her head, her eyes blazing with indignant scorn. "You can believe that of me? I thought you a gentleman!" Her voice hardened. "You have been served as you deserve. And now I am glad—glad!"

He turned about and went out through the parlor. The other men were drinking glasses in jolly good-fellowship. Dupont waveringly offered him the whiskey bottle. He thrust it back and left the house.

In Self-Defense.

Rather early the next morning the big, red-faced, blue-eyed man came alone to the office. He found Hardy making out a final report as acting agent.

"Getting ready to turn over?" he asked.

"I am prepared to do so the moment the new agent arrives and has checked the lists of agency property," was Hardy's curt reply.

"All right. I'll O. K. your report. Don't need to check the lists of an officer and gentleman," the man purred in his oiliest tone. He handed over a packet. "Here are the papers relieving you, and my appointment. I'm the new agent. I held them back to give young Vandervyn the chance to spring his pleasant little surprises on you."

"Very considerate," said Hardy. He opened and read the official document with care, pocketed his own, and handed the other back to the new agent.

"Very good. Now, if you will examine the accounts of the chief clerk and the issue clerk. I have brought them down to date, together with my report."

The new agent glanced at the papers and took up a pen. "You've certified their correctness. That's enough for me. I'll give you my O. K. of the turnover."

"You would oblige me by checking the property in the warehouse."

"Waste of time, captain. You'll want to be starting for the railroad. We made a night of it. Commissioners' heads are sore this morning. They want to get to work, and this is the best place. I can loan you my touring-

"I'll send it in the motor. There's a lot more of our own baggage to be brought out from the railroad," insisted the new agent.

He receipted Hardy's papers, and went to hunt up the chauffeur of the second car. Hardy took his private papers and the reports that he wished to mail, and went over to his quarters to pack his baggage. Dupont sent a policeman to fetch Hardy's mare and came in to offer his big hand.

"Hope you ain't going off with no hard feelings, Cap," he said.

Dinner Stories

Casey had dropped in for a visit or Callahan and during the course of his stay observed that Miss Callahan spoke several times of a chafingdish party she had attended the evening before.

Now Casey agreed with Callahan that the latter's daughter was putting on entirely too many airs; so, with a view to disconcerting her, he suddenly asked:

"Chafing-dish, Casey," said Callahan, with a sly wink at his visitor, "a chafing-dish is a fryin' pan that's got into society!"

A man traveling in Maine met a middle-aged farmer, who said his father, ninety years old, was still on the farm where he was born.

"Ninety years old, eh?" "Yes, pop is close to ninety."

"Is his health good?" "Taint much now. He's been complainin' of a few months back."

"What's the matter with him?" "I dunno; sometimes I think farm-in' don't agree with him."

The aged admiral was well known for his powers of exaggeration. At supper one night he was describing a thrilling voyage.

"While cruising in the Mediterranean," he said, "we passed an island which was red with lobsters."

"But," said one of the politely incredulous guests, "lobsters are not red until boiled."

"Of course not," said the undaunted admiral, "but this was a volcanic island with boiling springs!"

The teacher had been reading to the class about the great forests of America.

"And now, boys," she announced, "which one of you can tell me the pine that has the longest and sharpest needles?"

Up went a hand in the front row. "Well, Tommy."

"The porcupine!"

How Publicity Helped Mrs. Thomas to Health

Doctor Had Decried Operation When She Read of Mrs. Dunlap's Experience.

Some time ago Mrs. R. C. Dunlap of DeKalb, Mo., wrote to the St. Joseph, Mo., News-Press telling how, after years of suffering with stomach trouble, she had been relieved of a quantity of gall stones and restored to health through using Fruitola and Traxo. This letter was published and read by Mrs. Georgia C. Thomas of Lancaster, Mo., who had been told by her doctor, after months of treatment for similar trouble, that nothing but an operation would save her. Mrs. Thomas obtained Fruitola and Traxo from the drug store, and says: "By the time I had taken a month's treatment I felt like a new woman; the first dose of Fruitola brought a large number of gall stones and I am certain Fruitola and Traxo saved my life."

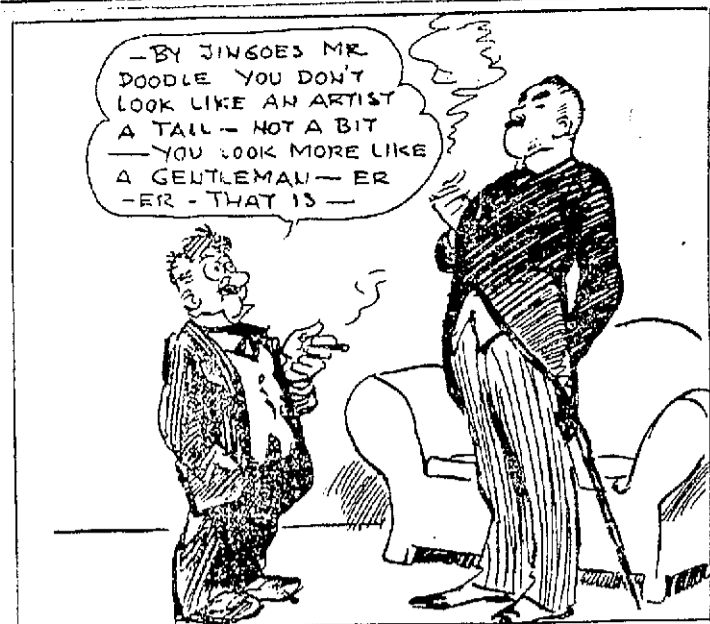

Fruitola and Traxo are compounded from the original Edsall formulas at the Pinus Laboratories in Monticello, Ill., and can be purchased in Janesville at J. P. Baker, 123 W. Milwaukee St.; a doctor's prescription is not necessary. Fruitola is a pure fruit oil that acts as an intestinal lubricant, disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, and disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering. One dose usually sufficient to indicate its efficacy. Traxo is a tonic-alternative that is most effective to rebuild and restore the weakened, rundown system. A booklet of special interest to those who suffer from stomach trouble can be obtained by writing to the Pinus Laboratories, Monticello, Illinois.

OHIO STATE TEAM WITHOUT DISPUTE CAN CLAIM TITLE

Conference Baby With Seven Games Won and Not a Single Defeat Finished at Top of Column.

Ohio State's eleventh hour spurt and 23 to 3 defeat of Northwestern, which gave it undisputed championship of the Big Nine; Minnesota's victory over Wisconsin, 49 to 0; Wisconsin's reversal of form and 6 to 0 battle with Illinois, in the western conference and in the east, Yale's triumph of 6 to 3 over Harvard, after long years of defeat and the defeat of the Navy by the Army, 15 to 7, stand out among Saturday's football games which brought an erratic season to a close.

Ohio State, perhaps the strongest team in the conference, aside from Minnesota, who slipped momentarily and before it could recover had been beaten by Illinois, is recognized as the conference leader in this season's football. Unable to get a date on the slate of the other big eleven, Chicago and Minnesota, nevertheless they played such class as Illinois and Wisconsin and were victorious. While the team, although one of the weakest at the beginning of the season finished without a mar of defeat against it.

Ohio State's next year will be able to command dates on the card of any school it cares. Other Big Nine schools which heretofore have considered its football team anything but "A" will have to make way in 1917 for the conference champions.

Minnesota must be given a hand in the western conference. Some critics class the northerners as the peer of Ohio State. After suffering bitter defeat from Illinois the Gophers came back strong, buried Wisconsin under a touchdown after touchdown and then turned around and did the same thing to Chicago. Their attack on every play Saturday they had the Maroons completely bewildered and gradually wore down Stagg's men to exhaustion. During the latter periods Minnesota was constantly rushing its subs into the fray, not because fresh men were needed but because Chicago was hopelessly beaten and to give the Gophers honors of playing in a big game. Minnesota was the better team, offensively and defensively, and is the equal of Ohio State in every stage of the game.

The badgers were surprised by holding Illinois scoreless although unable to count themselves. The costly fumble of Kreuse, Wisconsin fullback, lost victory. It is claimed to have been the only break of the game. It came in the final quarter with the ball in the Illinois five-yard line. Had the fumble not occurred nothing could have stopped a touchdown as Wisconsin backs had marched steadily the entire length of the field.

HERZOG TO BE THE GIANT'S MAINSTAY

By Hamilton.
New York, Nov. 27.—When John McGraw put over the deal that sent Christy Mathewson to Cincinnati as manager of the Reds, and brought Herzog to New York to play second base for the Giants, he accomplished one of the brightest moves of his somewhat brilliant career.

Regardless of McGraw's managerial ability, and regardless of how the Giants stand up next year, there is one thing that will be just as evident as it was when the New Yorkers hung up their historical winning streak last fall. Charley Herzog will be in there fighting and driving his team mates to greater efforts.

More than one close student of baseball gives Herzog more than half the credit for reviving the Giants last fall. His irresistible enthusiasm, his fighting mood on all occasions, and his ability to make those playing with him spurt at the same speed simply catapulted the Giants into that winning streak.

There is one excellent example of Herzog's energy and the lengths to which he will go to win a ball game. Brooklyn was playing in New York last summer and Casey Stengel was thrown out at second base. Casey is considerable of a scrapper himself and he came up raving. Charles Herzog had so incensed Stengel that he kept at it until he had cornered Stengel's goat to such an extent that Casey was ordered to the clubhouse. Herzog had so incensed Stengel that the Brooklyn outfielder turned his attention to the umpire and the two of them wrangled several minutes before Stengel by requests went to the show.

STERNEBANN TO SELL HIS STRING OF HORSES

Hat S., winner of a special silver trophy for breaking the Washington park track record, will be the only horse retained by Theodore Sternemann of Milwaukee, who has raced his horses here for many seasons past, after his sale on Tuesday at State Fair park. The veteran horseman will dispose of his entire stock. The offerings include the get of the following sires: Dan Patch, Peter the Great, (4), Hal Chaffin, Moko, Sidney Dillon, Coachman (2), The Director General, Grattan, Duke Jay, Tramp Medium, (2), Oakley D., Allan Downs and others. For years Sternemann has kept up an extensive stock farm in Wauwatosa, for pleasure alone, but business compels him to dispose of the horses. He holds the record for the mile in Wisconsin, and shattered the Washington park track mark this season. Although the cup for the fastest heat was awarded to Major Twigg, Hal S. and three others bettered the time, but did not start in enough heats.

Again, the poor down-trodden ball player. Both the Chicago White Sox and the Cub managements have approved plans for swimming tanks for the players of these teams. Maybe some of the players will demand that they be furnished bathing suits.

PHILADELPHIA DOCTORS TO BERLIN EMBASSY TO WORK.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington, Nov. 27.—Dr. C. Lincoln Furbush, prominent Philadelphia physician, sails for Berlin soon to take up his duties as special assistant to the American Embassy there. He will be one of the chief inspectors of military prison camps in Germany, by appointment to the State Department by officials of the American Red Cross. He worked with Surgeon General of the Army Gorgas, when the latter stamped contagious diseases out of Cuba.

Dr. Furbush, in his inspection work in Germany, will investigate the sanitary conditions of the prison camps, the health of the prisoners and the quality and quantity of the food supplied them. He will make frequent reports of his investigation to the State Department, through the Embassy at Berlin.

REPORT SHOWS HOW U. S. IS DEPENDENT ON NATIONS AT WAR

National Foreign Trades Council Shows Commodities Imported From Warring Countries.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Nov. 27.—The extent to which the life and industry of the United States depend upon the products of the countries now at war is analyzed in a report just issued as a part of the National Foreign Trade Council's investigation of the possible effect of European economic alliances on American foreign trade. Although it is shown that this country is in rare instances absolutely dependent upon foreign supplies, the analysis establishes the fact that the efficiency, economy and convenience of important American manufacturing and exporting activities have been directly related to the established sources of foreign supply of crude and semi-manufactured materials. The report says:

Of 218 commodities, each of an import value of more than $1,000,000 in 1913, 121 were principally imported from nations of the Allied group (including the British Colonies), while only forty-nine principally came from the Central Powers. In but forty-four cases neutral countries were the source of principal supply. This Allied superiority results from the United States' extensive importations from the British colonies. The United Kingdom (exclusive of the British colonies) appears forty-six times among the countries of principal supply and Germany forty-five times.

Changes in such sources are possibilities resulting from the European alliances. Increased cost of the supply of the materials concerned in such changing, it is held, may result in either or both the Entente and Central allied economic groups seeking to conserve their own materials for their own use, cost being enhanced either through the operation of the laws of supply and demand or by artificial restrictions such as the Canadian prohibition of the exportation of Crownland pulp woods.

"It would seem that policies directed to establish self-sufficiency in either or both groups would tend to a rearrangement rather than to a denial of supply of raw material," says the report. "In other words, if the Allies endeavor to draw their raw materials exclusively from among themselves, neutral sources of supply will be relied upon by other nations now depending upon the Allies."

The dependence of this country upon the rest of the world for her necessities is such that interruption of supply would not be serious. Importations are mostly in specialties. There is no actual dependence for foodstuffs upon either allies or enemies. The country has disclosed the fact that the United States manufacturing industry is not completely self-supporting.

The report refers to the efforts to create a coal tar dye industry to replace those products from Germany and describes the sources of other articles for which the United States depends on other countries. In the case of manganese, where British India and Russia, during 1913, were the principal suppliers, supplies are being increasingly drawn from Brazil," it continues. "For nickel, however, the United States is practically entirely dependent upon Allied sources. From 1911 to 1913, nickel was imported only from Canada, and to an extremely small percentage, also from Belgium. Also in tin a strong dependence upon foreign supplies exists and attention is being given the development of neutral resources. The silk consumed by the American silk industry comes mostly from Japan and Italy, China supplying about one-eighth of the present import."

It seems that none of the goods chiefly imported into this country, during 1913, really need be imported and that they could be done without for a prolonged period by using accumulated stocks if it should become imperative in the interest of the nation to dispense with such imports. The development of American industry has been one of opportunity, convenience and economy. American manufacturers, therefore, have abstained frequently from making good the manufacture of which did not seem profitable under American conditions and have left it to the importers to supply the real or imaginary needs of the country. When two years ago the regularity of this convenient supply was checked, a shortage of certain supplies existed until the American industry adjusted itself to new conditions.

MORRIS MILLER

Secretary Harry Grabner of the Chicago White Sox has been laid up in a Chicago hospital, following an operation to relieve a catarrhal affliction.

R. H. Baugh, president of the Southern Association, has announced that the annual meeting of the directors of his league will be held in Nashville, Tenn., on December 15.

Some managers claim that their players don't fight enough. Said managers should get in touch with Boss McCredie of the Portland club, who is planning to dispose of Benny White, because he is too pugnacious.

Flash Gilhooly got some encouraging information from a Cleveland specialist whom he recently consulted. He was told that the fracture of his leg was in good healing condition and that the bones of his ankle were all right. He will be ready for practice in February.

John A. Farrell, a former member of the National League as a player back in the old days, died at his home in Hartford, Conn., at the age of 60. He played second base for Providence in the National League, and at one time was connected with the Detroit team.

It is probable that no attempt will be made this winter to reorganize the Southern Michigan Baseball League. There have been rumors that the Class C organization would again be formed, but there seems to be a general agreement among former club owners that nothing will be done, at least until 1918.

Leslie Mann, Cub outfielder, has departed for Amherst College, where he will coach the basketball team until next spring. It is barely possible that Mann will not be with the Cubs next year, as Amherst has made him an offer to coach the college athletes all the year around, and Chicago writers say that the offer will in all probability be accepted.

Score another for Joseph Leslie Bush, star pitcher for the Athletics. The other day, he won the $7,500 damage suit brought against him at his home in Brainerd, Minn. He was charged with running down and killing Louis Miller, an aged Northville, Minn. farmer, in an automobile. M. E. Ryan, a great Philadelphia baseball fan, defended Bush.

Frank Shaughnessy, who has quit baseball and joined the Canadian army, in which he has been made lieutenant, takes a parting shot at the methods of the magnates. He said he had practically agreed to manage the Toronto International league team last spring and was all ready to take the job, after turning down two good offers, when he got word that plans had been changed and that Joe Birmingham had been signed. Shaughnessy should get some satisfaction out of the fact that Birmingham was a failure, at any rate.
